Kylie Willis earned a Bachelor of Science in Elementary Education degree from College of the Ozarks, a work college in Point Lookout, Missouri. After graduating college, she taught 1st grade at a small village in Alaska and learned a lot about their culture. After returning to the “Lower 48,” she received a Masters in Curriculum and Instruction from St. Xavier University in Chicago and began teaching in Georgia. Mrs. Willis taught first grade for 4 years in Atlanta, then established a gifted program where she taught for 2 years in Fairburn. She is married to a fellow educator and curriculum developer. They have one daughter who loves having fun with mom and dad.
